

ABSTRACT

A sustained release composition comprising cellulose fibers, an active agent, and an optional release retardant is disclosed. The composition has an improved ability to stabilize and release the active agent over an extended time period.